Pelock talking with the Christian workers. There was i large attendance also at the prayer meeting, which took place in the Fourth avenue hall immediately after the general meeting. Here about a dozen young concerns arone and related their various experiences, nuch to the edification of the 2,000 people present, sho listened to these young persons with as much attention as they did to Mr. Moody's discourse.

There will be no tickets required for the afternoon meetings this week, but the front seats will be reserved at the evening meetings for those who are not yet Christians, and non churchoers. Tickets for these seats can be procured in the Fourth avenue hall any time during the week.

A UNITARIAN HINDOO.

teresting incident occurred yesterday morning Fourth avenue, which affected to tears many of those who witnessed it. At the conclusion of Dr. Bellows' sermon and before the benediction was pronounced the reverend gentleman said:—"Before separating I wish to say a few words about a young man whose welfare I have at heart and on whose behalf I wish to excite your sympathy." He then toldhow, about four years sgo, through the efforts of Christian missionaries, a young man, a Brahmin, the son of a Governor of one of the provinces in India, was converted. When his family, who were of very high caste and rich in this of the provinces in India, was converted. When his family, who were of very high caste and rich in this world's goods, had endeavored in vain to persuade away his new belief they, in accordance with the customs of that country, made a paste image of him and carried it to the outskirts of the town, and, with many a solemn ceremony, for ten days mourned and sorrowed as for one dead. At the end of that time the image was burned and the ashes buried, the significance of the rite being mat this son and brother was, indeed, dead to them. Three years ago he came to this country, and kind friends of the butch Reformed Church began to educate him, with the ultimate intention of sending him as a missionary to his native land. About a year ago, however, he became convinced that he could not reconcile his mind to the doctrine of the Trinity, and came to me for advice. He was very yeang, and I thought perhaps he did not thoroughly know his own mind, and I advised him, as I thought best, to remain with the friends to him. A short time ago, however, he came to me again, and, will tears in his eyes, said that the more he studied the more he became convinced that he could not accept the doctrine of the Trinity. Dr. Bellows described in glowing terms the talents of the young man, the beauty, sweetness and simplicity of his character, said that the more he had taken him to his own house. The youth had given up home, family, wealth and country, all for Jesus, and now again he had given up all for conscience. In the meantime the object of the preacher's remarks, a swarthy but gentle looking young man, had sscended the puipit, and Dr. Bellows, putting his hand on his shoulder, his voice quivering with emolion, said, "I love him, and I want you friends to love him, too." The young man had been weeping during the telling of his story, and at the conclusion of the appeal in his behalf sat down, apparently completely overcome. Dr. Bellows also stated that the youth had made remarkable progress in his studies, was familiar with Latin and

ORDINATION OF ELDERS.

The services at St. John's Methodist Episcopal church, Fitty-third street, were of more than ordinary interest last evening. The Rev. J. A. M. Chapman preached an able sermon, after which the following were ordained elders of the Methodist Episcopal Church:—Revs. W. A. Chadwick, R. N Travis, U. R. Banton, E. Winte, J. H. Mitchell, Thomas S. Bond, F. D. Abrains, Eli Quick and J. W. Felvis. A large num-ber of person were present, including many of the del-egates to the Methodist Episcopal Conference.

SUNDAY IN THE PARK.

THE PROMENADERS YESTERDAY AND THE NEW ACCOMMODATIONS PROVIDED FOR THEM.

Yesterday might be regarded as the "opening day" at the Central Park, for the promise held out in the ing the afternoon, and for once gentle spring was allowed to assert herself without being suddenly elbowed out of sight by chilly winds and ungentle showers. The fair weather had the effect of drawing out promenaders by the hundred, and all the avenues leading to the Park were actually thronged. From noon till dewy eve the walks, bowers and cosey nooks of the city's great recreation grounds were crowded with ladies radiant in smiles and spring dresses and young men who to give themselves an airing. The soft but bracing brevze, the clear sky and sunshine, lent a cheering look to wereything and brightened the faces of the long train of dwelters in the city, to whom this genialty of weather was most acceptable after the unpleasant changes of the last few weeks. There were men there released for a day from office drudgery, and others whose hours of toil are long and burdensome and to whom the afternoon's stroll in the Park is a grateful it only a temporary remedy for lite's cares. To these and others in all the walks of business the bright springtime of yesterday was a source of real enjoyment. Dame Nature herself has so often been deceived of late by the Ireaks of the weather that she has been a little laggard in assuming her customary gay attire, and the only indication as yet afforded of the season of blossoms is a brightening of the verdure and an occasional bud upon the trees. The Arsenal, as usual, became a great centre of attraction for sightseers, and all through the afternoon the wild denizens of the Park were submitted to the curious gaze of thousands. There is a marked improvement in the condition of

and an effort it seems is made to guard as much as possible against offensive odors and to provide adequate means of ventilation. Another want which was felt for a long time has lately been supplied, in the shape of a bridge, which opens a way from the meangerie to the Sixth avenue entrance. One of the specifications in the original plan of laying out the Park was the establishment of waiks under or over the drive, so that all accidents to pedestrians from the passing vehicles could be effectually guarded against. This rule has generally been observed in contracting roads, but until lately access to the menagence and its environs was to be obtained by people compitered to the Park which has an interest for all visitors was suggested to the Commissioners, and they have just succeeded in completing the bridge and passage way, which will enable people to go from the Sixth avenue gate direct to the Arsenal During the winter the lower lake has been closed, the water drawn off and the stones, dirt and debris removed from the bottom. A layer of the surface clay some inches thick has also been taken out, and this it is thought will render the water of the lake clearer and facilitate skating arrangements in the winter months. Owing to the lack of appropriations, none of the schemes contemplated for enlarging the Park's seconomiodations and supplying new restures of interest have been carried out, but it is authoritatively stated that as soon as the requisite funds are provided the Art M. eum and other edifices in course of erection will be completed.

WORKINGMEN'S MEETING.

WORKINGMEN'S MEETING.

A meeting was held yesterday by workingmen at No. A meeting was neid yesterday by workingmen at No. 189 Bowery which was largely attended by Americans, Germans, French and English. A Frenchman, recently arrived, but who possessed a fair command of our language, addressed the meeting. After giving a statement of the condition of workingmen's societies in France, he expressed himself happy to understand that the labor element in America was become rance, he expressed blinself happy to understand that the labor element in America was becoming aroused to the necessity of attaining political prominence before it should be too late—when the rich had grown richer and the poor poorer. The Frenchman made a suggestion about the benefits to be derived from co-operative stores. A Mr. McGregor, the next speaker, opposed this idea in very explicit terms, which seemed to win the approbation of the meeting. It was then announced that twenty-seven of the Chicago furniture manufacturers have signed an agreement to pay on and after the 5th of July next the same wages for eight hours labor as they are now paying for ten hours, provided that the other manufacturers in that city will act accordingly. The announcement of this news elected much entity makes the meeting yesterday. It was further stated that the "Sons of Vulcan," the coal miners, the window glass makers and various other trade unloss have attested their willingness to be present at the general convention of trade delegates to be held in the city of Pittsburg on the 17th inst.

The printers held a meeting at the Germania Assembly Rooms yester'ay. Their strike, it was announced, has been a partial success. It was anserted at this meeting that they were determined to continue every effort to secure a just remuneration for their labor.

PETROLEUM PERFUMERY.

NEW YORK, April 8, 1876. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-

Dr. Otterson's remarks on the Hunter's Point stench have suggested to a friend of mine a valuable idea in perfumery. He intends to patent his discovery, but for the benefit of the world at large I will reveal his

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON A YOUNG WHITE WOMAN BY A NEGRO IN WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

In the vicinity of Hall's Corners, a hamlet situated on the otherwise lonely turnpike leading from Tarry-town to White Plains, Westchester county, and about five miles distant from the former village, a horrible outrage was perpetrated by a negro on the person of a young white woman last Thursday afternoon. One of the isolated farmhouses near the "Corners" is owned and occupied by Robert Cypner, an industrious tiller of the soil, whose family consists of a wife and stepdaughter, Nettie Many, the latter being about seventeen years old. Between one and two o'clock in the afternoon Nettie left home for the purpose of years old. Between one and two o'clock in the afternoon Nettie left home for the purpose of visiting one of her schoolmates who lived about a mile away, and to reach *the home of her friend she had to pass through a piece of woods which covered the sides of a ravine seidom frequented by strangers to the neighborhood. Before the young woman had emerged from the thick undergrowth which fringes the pathway through the woods she was studenly surprised by a pair of arms being thrown around her, and, turning to see who the person was, she found her face in close contact with that of a black, burly negro. Her brutal assailant lost no time in telling his horrifled victim what his intentions were, and sho, after screaming in vain for assistance, piteously pleaded that her assailant would take her rings and carurops, provided he would desist from his avowed purpose. Amit her cries and tears, the young gri struggled bravely with the sable ruthan, who finally succeeded in throw higher to the ground, and, having exhausted her strength for further resistance, the fiend at length succeeded in accomplishing his atroclous purpose. The poor girl shortly after ward reached home in a lainling condition, with her garments disordered and almost toru from her person.

When the outrage became known the greatest excitement existed in the neighborhood. Armed men, both mounted and on foot, made all haste in the direction taken by the negro, and after scouring the woods and surrounding neighborhood all of that evening, as well as during the ensuing night and a portion of the following day they reluctantly abandoned the search, believing that the villain had made good his escape. Had he been found there is little doubt but that his body would have daugled from the nearest tree. The unfortunate girl describes him as a very black negro, of large size, having a flat nose and thick prominent lies. It is thought that he was discharged a low days since from the county jail, where he had been confined as a vagrant, or tramp, as he answers the des

DR. CHANDLER AND THE LACTO-

New York, April 7, 1876.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Will you allow me to reply through your columns to the letter to-day published therein signed by Protessor C. F. Chandler, President of the Board of Health?

I tully share in Dr. Chandler's expressed distipation of the sending personal communication. correct statements should not be allowed to pass un-challenged. It is because of that belief that I cannot statements contained in the letter I refer to

Dr. Chandler's letter is disingenuous and calculated which is that he wholly fails to state that in the case in which three justices of the Court of Special Sessions "listened patiently to all of Dr. Doremus" arguments and decided the case against his client," the judgment pronounced by the three wise men in question was absolutely and in every particular reversed by the unanimous judgment of the judges of the General Term of the Supreme Court. How singular it is that in citing this case as an authority in favor of the lactometer the learned President of the Hoard of Health should altogether omit to inform the public of the trifling circumstance that the authority which he adduces has been wholly annulled by the judgment of an appellate tribunal.

The case it question is that of John Kneib vs. The People, decided December 2, 1875, by Judges Davis, Brady and Daniels. This is the only case in which the merits of the lactometer have ever come directly before any of the higher courts in this city, and it furnishes such a flat contradiction of Br. Chandler's statement to the effect that the position taken by him concerning this instrument "has been invariably sustained by the courts" as to make it seem wonderful that the learned Doctor should inake such an assertion.

The excellent professor further states that "since that thuse convictions were had on the fasth of the evidence iternished by the lactometer." Dr. Chandler most carefully refrains from stating that those convictions were had on the fasth of the evidence iternished by the lactometer. Yet his statement is so worded that he evidently intends the public to believe such to be the fact.

The following trivial circumstances Dr. Chandler for the lactometer." Dr. Chandler some very excellent (though possibly unpalatable) advice as to what afforded the best evidence of the additeration of milk. The Judge auggested that the milk should in future be analyzed. This has ever since been done, and in the twenty or thirty cases referred to Br. Chandler caused the milk to be carefully analyzed, and he was prepared in Cour to mislead the public in many particulars, one of which is that he wholly fails to state that in the case in comment than does any single one for a long time past. The key note was a dull, melancholy monotone, and its daily recurrence only added to the existing de-pression of feeling. There was no cheerfulness such as is excited by the changes rung on a chime of bells, but rather the gloom provoked by the tocsin. The market has been left almost wholly to itself—that is, who daily irequent the purlicus of the Exctange and the scant sprinking of smaller jobbers who hang on their skirts. The usual leaders of the opposing forces, for reasons best known to themselves, have kept studiously free from any im-portant demonstration, and apart from the apparently concerted bull inovement on a single occa-sion (which was short as it was sharp) the market has been free from sensation. Lacking any external aid which it was hoped the public would have afforded, and offered in this spring tide, and wanting the artificial stimulus from the great professional operator, the market dragged and floundered along on its way to lower prices under the sheer incubus of inactivity. Beside this an additional weight was added from a condition of stocks themselves. For instance, there was a mingling of surprise and disappointment in the uniavorable showing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in the falling off of receipts in other important lines and in the squabbles and threatened litigation of the Panama and Pacific Mail lines. The doleful course of this latter stock helped to demoralize the market as it succeeded in demoralizing its own supporters, if sales of long stock purchased at prices 75 per cent higher or thereabout be any criterion.

What is to be the late of this important property, which for so many years was the pride of the country, is scarcely clear as yet, though all appearances indicate the appointment of a receiver or a clean drift into bankruptcy. Added to the depressing condition above nentioned were the passing of the Panama dividend. the doubtful stories about the Lake Shore earnings and the possible effect upon Western Union of a continued telegraphic war.
In a word there was scarcely a bright spot on the whole horizon, and the wonder rather is that matters did not result in a serious break than in a moderate fall. The truth is there are no more buyers of stocks than there are buyers in the general commercial mar-kets of the world. There is no more money to risk in the purchase of speculative funcies than there is to spend for gewgaws or other commodities that people can do without. The stock brokers have been playing a game of battledoor and shuttlecock month in and month out, until at last, wearred out, they let the toy of cork and feathers fall to the ground. The e is no profit made in this sort of pastime—it is even worse, for the game has to be paid for, and the butcher and baker collect the money.

It is much easier to describe the situation than to point the way out of it. There are those who still ophesy a buoyant, active market during the coming but a dull drag of stagnation. As is usually the case with extremes the truth probably lies between the two. While it will be generally conceded that the floancial condition of the country is healthier to-day than it has been for years past, and that the foundation for a new edifice of prosperity is being solidly laid, it is probably certain that opportunities for "making haste to get rich" are past and gone, for this generation at least.

the last quarter have been small, and, such as they are, have in many instances been absorbed by bad debts. Trade is dull, capital is awaiting investment, merchants from the interior are buying little more than absolute necessaries, and the stocks of goods on the hands of jobbers have not yet suffered that healthy depletion which makes a demand on the manufacturer and sets in motion the wheels of reproductive com-merce. A similar state of affairs exists in England, and a long procession of failures, of which we have not yet seen the end, attests the silent but desperate struggle that is taking place in the endesvor to check the down-ward course of prices and uphold on profitable foundations the structure of capital. While many reasons may be assigned for this unhappy condition-the one great underlying cause in both countries may be comprehended in the single word-distrust. The com-merce of Great Britain has been affected by the colhere of Great Britain has been affected by the col-lapse of important business enterprises, and of foreign loans, by a deficient harvest, by more or less of im-poverishment in agricultural districts and by a warfare between the capitalist and laborer. In America we are halting over the platitudes of country statesmen who, with an eye to the next election and their own personal advantage, rather than to the public weal, are ignorantly tinkering with the currency and so undermining and unsettling confidence. Our financial status once defined, however, the current will set toward improvement. Forty millions of people can-not be long retarded in their growth, and it will not be many months, unless some disaster intervenes, be-fore the flow drooping patient will commence to revive and the process of recovery show itself at work in every artery of his system.

This poor exhibit does not arise so much from a low rate of earnings as from a high rate of working expenses, which reaches where the original estimate of the Grand Trunk proved to be at fault, and the same is no doubt true of the other roads. If the working expenses could be cut down to a moderate figure a ray of hope would break in upon our railway interest. Apropos, it is stated that an order has been issued by the officials of the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and all other passenger train men. A like decrease will be made in the pay of the clerks in the freight department and the laborers engaged in the mainte
